

UGSOA Breaking News

The Question of The Day:

Why Would UGSOA President Desiree Sullivan Disclaim Interest in UGSOA Local 21 Washington D.C. With 300 Dues Paying Members When The UGSOA International is on the Verge of Bankruptcy with $97,564 in Net Assets?

Was UGSOA President Desiree Sullivan Somehow Paid-Off To Disclaim Interest in UGSOA Local 21 Or Did She SELL-OFF The Members?

The Washington Post

School Security Firm Under Fire

Hawk One Security, which is supposed to help keep order in D.C. public schools, is getting tough--with its own guards. That's according to a series of unfair labor practice charges filed by Local 32BJ of the Service Employees International Union (SEIU).

SEIU told the National Labor Relations Board last month that Hawk One has illegally surveilled, interrogated and suspended employees "who have participated in lawful union organizing activities to improve their working conditions." The guards are currently represented by the United Government Security Officers of America (UGSOA), but some believe they can do better with SEIU.

Hawk One executive Richard Walker said he could not comment on the charges. "The only thing we can say is that this is a battle between SEIU and UGSOA. Hawk One is trying to remain above the fray."

Although District officials say that school crime as a whole is down, several incidents over the last year--including the arrest of 19 Dunbar High School students for fighting and a melee at Anacostia High School that left five students injured--have raised questions about Hawk One's effectiveness. Guards have been criticized for being poorly trained and inappropriately friendly with students. Chancellor Michelle A. Rhee has said that she is working with the police department to upgrade the training that guards receive.

Jaime Contreras, Local 32BJ's Capitol Area District director, said different union representation would help force an improvement. "Hawk One's track record of negligence and faulty management at public schools and other District sites puts the public and our students at further risk."

VOTE UGSOA

WHY?

- If UGSOA Local 21 is voted out, the only thing SEIU Local 32BJ can do is ask your employer to voluntarily recognize SEIU Local 32BJ as your new union because it also represents employees that are not guards, like janitors. However, your employer cannot do that if UGSOA Local No. 21 is the bargaining representative because the UGSOA only represents guards.
- If you choose to vote out UGSOA Local 21, you are giving away your right to vote on who your bargaining representative will be, and will instead give that choice to your employer.
- The bottom-line is that if you and your coworkers vote out UGSOA Local 21, you will be handing over to your employer all the power to decide whether a union will protect you. Do you really want that?
